The South Australian Museum

Museums are one of the most trusted of all cultural institutions because they are based on the real thing: the collections. They offer truly unique experiences of discovery and exploration that encourage a greater understanding of our world.

For more than 150 years the South Australian Museum has been committed to making Australia's natural and cultural heritage accessible, engaging and fun, and to being a place where families can learn and grow together.

Today the Museum is one of the most highly visited museums in Australia, holds collections of national and international significance, engages actively with communities across South Australia through outreach programs, and is a leader in Australian Aboriginal heritage and scientific research.

Ways to Support the Museum

The South Australian Museum is committed to making Australia's natural and cultural heritage accessible, engaging and fun. It is a place where families can learn and grow together. Donations help us to share our collections, undertake research and tell important stories through our exhibitions and galleries. Donations over $2 are fully tax deductible and 100% of your donation will be used towards your specified cause. Donate now to the South Australian Museum to:

Help care for our free Zoo

The World Mammals Gallery – our free Zoo – is a much loved and busy spot in the Museum. Generations of families have visited the Museum over the years to see their favourite animal friends. Donations to this gallery will assist with the interpretation and care of these beloved creatures such as ‘Miss Siam’ the Elephant and ‘Nathan’ the Lion with the wiggly tail. (Yes, it does wiggle!)

A donation of $60 will help us to care for one animal in the World Mammals Gallery for a year.

Help feed our hungry animals

Reptiles including snakes, turtles and lizards are an important and exciting part of the Information Centre experience. Children can see these amazing animals, while also learning about South Australian biodiversity.

A donation of $100 will keep one of our friends well-fed for a year.

Help our scientists explore

Our scientists and collection managers conduct regular expeditions nationally and internationally to research, investigate and fact-find. South Australia is home to some amazing outdoor laboratories, like the Flinders Ranges, and working in these locations every year is an important part of studying and protecting them.

A donation of $1,500 will pay for the essentials required for a week long research trip within South Australia.

Help inspire our youngest visitors

The Tell Me a Story initiative is a hugely popular free program designed especially for 3- to 5-year-olds. Children's natural curiosity about nature and culture builds their understanding through play. Please add your support to the Museum's Tell Me a Story initiative, and enable us to offer the program to even more young Museum visitors.

A donation of $20 will provide the means for a young child to attend and a donation of $200 would fund a whole session for 11 children.

Help reach out across the State

Please consider supporting the indispensable work of our outreach teams as they take Museum objects and expertise into remote areas in South Australia, connecting with communities and schools. Our annual visit to the very remote APY Lands allows the Museum educators to reach 1500 children.

A donation of $15 covers one child's involvement, and a donation of $4,500 will provide 300 children access to the Collections.

Support scientific excellence

The South Australian Museum is the most successful research museum in Australia. Work undertaken by our staff is of benefit to all those who seek knowledge about our planet and environment.

A donation of $500 will enable scientists to continue acquiring the cutting edge technology and equipment required to create new knowledge.

Thank you!
